

P. A. C. SCORE A BIG HIT IN MINSTREL SHOW

Production Well Received--End Men
Clever and Singers all Well Known Local Men--Will be Repeated this Evening

The Portsmouth Athletic Club scored another success on Monday evening, when they presented at the Portsmouth Theatre their annual minstrel show to a large and appreciative audience. It was a typical P. A. C. production and the number was excellent. The production showed pretty close to the time honored minstrel with just innovations to make it thoroughly up to date. The music was good, although at times it appeared as though the orchestra was a little heavy for the ballads, but this was hardly noticeable. The ends were all clever; they had good songs and good jokes. The double quartet was very fine and all of the ballads were finely rendered. The chorus was well trained and strong.

The stage setting with costumes was very pretty and the show went along at a good rate, the first part being over a little after ten o'clock.

The Orchestra led by Alex. Bilbruck did excellent work and their discursive overture following the first part was very well received.

The opening overture was entitled from Grand Opera to Rag Time and it gave the chorus and ends considerable fun. Into this were worked with fine effect two solos, Emmett O'Leary and George Wingate the latter in his old negro make-up which he carries out to perfection and his heavy bass voice is especially suited for the part.

George McPheters also had a very clever dance in the opening.

The first two ends were Leon Ashe and Eddie Cooney both clever boys who sang their songs well and their

TO PUT PORTSMOUTH ON THE "MOVIE" MAP

Gustave Frohman, one of the famous theatrical Frohmans was in Portsmouth Monday and today, coming here from New York to consult with Manager Hartford of the Portsmouth Theatre the advisability of using Portsmouth as the background for his great photodramas which he has in mind.

In an interview Mr. Frohman said it was his intention to produce among other stories Thomas Bailey Aldrich's "The Story of a Bad Boy." He said that as Mr. Aldrich had written his great story here, here was the proper place to have the drama filmed. Mr. Frohman attended the matinee performance of his production, "The Fairy and the Wolf," at the Portsmouth Theatre and after the performance said that he would probably use Percy Hutton, the boy who played one of the principals in this production, and who made a reputation for himself as Peter Grimm, as the hero in his proposed production of the Aldrich drama.

"Another big thing I intend to do is the production of a stirring war drama, concluding it with the great

Emperor William Personally Directing Operations of the Austro-German Armies in the Carpathians

Russo-Japanese Peace story that was "Made in Portsmouth," Mr. Frohman said. "Portsmouth and vicinity is a wonderful place for the staging of photoplays. I have been looking over the ground about here and have found much that may be used to advantage. I visited New Castle today and it is very adaptable for much of my work." Mr. Frohman and the rest of his family is interested in producing only the cleanest and best in the amusement line. He intimated that he would rather produce a failure that would be a big success than a failure that would prove of a questionable nature. Mr. Frohman is far from being a stranger in this section as he has spent several summers at North Rye Beach.

He feels certain that he can put Portsmouth "on the map" in the movie world and he evidently has every intention of doing so.

On the evidence produced by Sheriff Ceylon Spinney of Portsmouth, who searched the store, he was found guilty and given a minimum fine of $25 and costs which amounted to $53.10 which he paid. Petrograd, April 13.—Emperor William is personally directing operations of the Austro-German army in the Carpathians, according to a semi-official statement issued here today. The report attributes the sudden offensive of the Teutonic forces to the arrival of the Kaiser at the front, and an order has been issued by him to cut through the Russian left wing in order to force an abandonment of the attack being made upon the Austro-German position at Uzok Pass. The House Gazette correspondent at Lebnberg telegraphed that the Austrians previously reported on the verge of complete retreat, have launched fierce attacks upon the Russians. To oppose these attacks, rearrangement of the Russian forces has been found necessary, and reinforcements have been sent to their aid.

BELIEVE NAVAL STATION DESTROYED

(Special to The Herald)

London, April 13.—A dispatch was received here today from Aberdeen telling of a terrible explosion at Lerwick, capital of the Shetland Islands, in which many persons were killed and much property destroyed. Rumors are afloat here that a German spy has blown up the royal naval reserve station at that place. As soon as news of the explosion reached here, the government took over the telegraph lines into Scotland, making it difficult to secure any details of the disaster.

Five persons are known to have been killed and more than 40 injured, many probably fatally in the explosion. A Press agency dispatch said: "The explosion occurred in a store near the big fish market. The fish market was set afire. The big explosion of gun cotton in the naval station followed. Many houses were destroyed and the fish market was gutted by fire. Four men and one boy were blown to pieces. More than 40 persons were seriously hurt."

BOSTON LETTER

Boston, April 13.—With speeches in Lynn, Waltham, Newton, Cambridge and Watertown, the second campaign of the Anti-Saloon workers in this state has formally opened. Every city and town in the state is to be visited by a corps of national temperance speakers of national repute. Governor Patterson of Tennessee, one of the campaigners declared that national prohibition would be a fact in the next five years. Each of the speakers urged the non-partisan, non-sectarian selection of congressmen pledged to national prohibition to represent Massachusetts in the national house, where the big fight for the abolition of the saloon will center. It was freely predicted that the congress of 1916 would pass the resolution to be ratified by 36 states. Bitter attacks were launched against the liquor traffic. Sen. Small of Georgia one of the foremost figures of the South in the fight for national prohibition, veteran of two wars, once secretary to President Johnson and one time editor of the Atlanta Constitution and several other publications, declared that national prohibition was the pivot on which will turn the direction and destiny of our civilization. Congressman Hobson declared that alcohol was a poison; that 440 out of every 1000 deaths in England were due to it; that the death roll of liquor in the United States is 100,000 persons each year.

An earnest appeal for an effort to settle the European war was made by Professor Harry P. Ward who spoke at the Ford Hall meeting. His idea is that the government should be asked to call a conference of the neutral powers to place the program of democracy before them and that later a conference of the belligerents should be called. He took the position that we will greatly fail in our duty if we do not attempt to lead the people of the earth at this time. He protested against spread eagle speaking and "flag waving flapdoodle," asserting that the thing to do is to get the world fed, clothed and housed, and feeling the way that good music make us feel. That the spirit of democracy must be of world wide extent and that the true American is a citizen of the whole world was asserted by the speaker.

The plan whereby the shipping of gold in different parts of the country will be obligated when number banks of the federal reserve system settle indebtedness against one another, which is being worked out by the federal reserve board, is considered by local bankers as one of the greatest steps taken since the establishment of the reserve board. The plan provides for the establishment of a gold fund in the treasury department by the regional reserve banks as the basis of a system of clearance.

COMMISSION BUSY ON LICENSES

THE CELEBRATED FRANKLIN CAR

The man who best appreciates the Franklin is the man who has owned and operated another car—any car. He has a basis for comparison.

The determination of buyers to face the facts and get the figures has made the Franklin the fastest selling line automobile in America.

Engine and Vehicle Patented July 2, 1908.

Weight 2750 Lbs., 4½ in. tires—Price $2150.

In these days of standardization automobiles are known in classes—namely: Cheap, Common, Good, Fine, Splendid and Luxurious.

THE FRANKLIN IS DISTINCTIVELY THE FINE AUTOMOBILE

The Franklin today represents the most difficult of all engineering achievements—the attainment of scientific light weight, simplicity and easy-riding qualities, in a luxurious five-passenger touring car that costs less to maintain than the cheapest car made.

Automobile users everywhere have seen the U. S. Government's report showing the cost of operating a Franklin car in comparison with other makes.

The Franklin DIRECT-AIR-COOLING SYSTEM does away with all useless complications—eliminating radiator leaks—frozen plumbing in the winter and the trouble and annoyance of boiling water in hot weather. In the recent engineers' test at the Mason Laboratory of Yale University, not only was the fuel mileage cost of the Franklin the lowest of any car tested, but under the severest conditions of the test, during the fastest runs and the heaviest pulling, the engine could not be overheated.

business was good. Leon Ashe had a real mackerel and his song was well sung and his dance, very clever. Eddie Cooney also had a good song and he responded to three encores in his dance.

Mr. John Mitchell sang with telling effect a pretty ballad "Rose of My Heart." Mr. Ira Newick had a very fine song, "Neptune, Lord of the Sea." And this was one of the big hits of the show.

The third part opened with the advent of "Hod" Rowe and Charlie Dondoro. Their opening song, "In the Evening by the Moonlight, In Dear Old Tennessee," being a very pretty number.

Mr. Ernest Cook sang one of Hasty and Billbruck's hit songs entitled "When Memory's Bells Chime Home Sweet Home." This is one of the best numbers the local song-writers have written and it was finely sung by Mr. Cook.

Charlie Dondoro had a rattling good song "A Hundred Years from Now." He sang it well and his local hits were good.

Stewart Humphreys sang "Years, Years, Years."

Hod Rowe made a hit with Hasty and Billbruck's comedy song entitled "By Bungalow on the Moon." This is by far the best song in this line they have ever produced. It is catchy and the words are especially clever and it did not lose anything in Mr. Rowe's handling, for he was never in better voice.

There were two good vaudeville acts, Harry Murray in a "Vaudeville Cocktail" and The Three Heddors, one of the best acts of its kind seen here for years. It is a family of father, mother and son and they are the cleverest head balancers on the road and graceful in every move they make.

The entire show is a credit to the veteran manager Fred E. Hasty, who has been working for some weeks getting the show into place.

The line-up:

Center man—Arthur Horton.

Right corner men—Leon Ashe, Charley Dondoro.

Inside ends—George McPheters, Stewart Humphreys.

PRESIDENT WILL NOT GO TO THE FAIR

(Washington, April 12.—President Wilson has decided definitely not to accompany Secretary Daniels on his contemplated trip through the Panama Canal to San Francisco in July. It was said at the White House today that the question of the President visiting the Panama-Pacific Exposition was dependent on the condition of the international situation.

The President today accepted an invitation to speak in Philadelphia May 10, before a large group of new American citizens. He was much impressed with the idea of holding a meeting to impress American ideals on foreigners who have recently become American citizens.

An invitation to speak at Independence Hall, Philadelphia on July 4, has been declined. Mr. Wilson delivered an address there last Independence Day and Philadelphiaans had hoped to make the occasion an annual affair.

The President it was said, at the White House will attend the annual luncheon of the Associated Press in New York on April 20. If public business permits.

BRITISH LINER TORPEDOED BY GERMAN SUBMARINE

London, April 12.—The Harrison Line steamer Wayfarer has been torpedoed and sunk by a German submarine, according to a message received in London by a news agency. Details of the incident are lacking.

Another message from Liverpool says the Wayfarer has not gone down, but that she is making for Queenstown in tow. The vessel was torpedoed off the Scilly Islands, according to this report.

The owners of the Wayfarer say they have no information on the subject. The British steamer Wayfarer was 555 feet long and registered 6222 tons. She was built in Belfast in 1903 and was owned in Liverpool. She left Liverpool Jan. 27 for Liverpool where she arrived Feb. 17.

Cottolene—Unequalled for purity and wholesomeness

The shortening you use in cooking and baking should be as pure and wholesome as the food that is prepared with it.

Cottolene

Is itself a pure, wholesome food, consisting of ultra-refined, cottonseed oil—as fine as the choicest salad oil—and beef tallow from selected leaf beef suet. Cottolene is not "just as good" as other cooking and frying fats—it is better than any other—more nutritious, wholesome, digestible—better in every way.

Cottolene does not absorb tastes or odors. Heat it slowly and use it over and over for all kinds of frying.

Always use a third less of Cottolene than of any other shortening or frying fat. Arrange with your grocer for a regular supply.

A Lesson in Saving.

A writer in a New York newspaper, evidently appreciating the present-day fondness for statistics, has been telling what can be accomplished by saving a dime a day and keeping the money at compound interest. He presents a table of instructive figures to make plain his contention that there are larger possibilities than is commonly supposed in connection with saving in a small way. He shows that a dime a day saved from the time of a child's birth and kept at compound interest would amount to $500 by the time the boy or girl was eleven years old, $1,000 when the age of 18 was reached, and at the age of 21 the holder of the account would have $1,300. The writer points out that this would help to pay the way through boarding school or college, and also shows how the habit of saving a dime a day would help to procure a house or stocks and bonds which would be a material aid toward meeting the cost of living.

This is all true, yet the fact will lead few to resort to saving in this particular way, which is just as well, provided the impression of the value of saving is retained. Saving a dime a day, whether or no, would often cause inconvenience, small as is the sum, and would be liable to engender a niggardly habit. What is needed is a more general appreciation of the practicability of getting something ahead by the accumulation of modest savings, and a more general practice of living strictly within one's means, to the end that something may be laid up for the proverbial rainy day.

At the present time there is a woeful lack of knowledge of this simple fact, or appreciation of it. People have got into the habit of spending as they go, and in too many cases faster than they earn the money, with the result that debts accumulate and middle age or advanced years are reached with no adequate provision for their necessities. This is one of the most glaring faults of the American people, and it is one that should be corrected.

There should be a better understanding of the value of true economy, which does not mean miserliness or the rigid saving of a dime or any other given amount every day. It means living within one's means and saving what can conveniently be saved for use at a time when it will surely be needed. The practice of doing this should be more general. The saving habit is the correct thing, but it should never be allowed to degenerate into a saving habit. In saving, as in earning and spending, there is a wide field for the exercise of common sense.

Postoffices Demoralized.

If Uncle Sam would open a bureau of complaints for the public to register kicks and complaints about the mail service it would take a building equal to the capitol at Washington to house the clerks. The service is in a wretched condition and it is run on the principal of the public be damned. The service was equally as bad when the republicans were in power. Little or no attention is paid to second class matter, the offices for delivery are open any old time, deliveries are made when the employees see fit and it takes forever to sort the mails. "No matter what becomes of a letter," is the spirit of the service, and it is growing worse every month. The parcel post is growing into disfavor because there is no one responsible for damage and losses and government red tape makes complaints worthless. And yet there are people crying for government ownership of other utilities.

The cause of equal rights gets a boost in France, where women are being listed for service in the ambulance and aviation corps to take the places of men who are needed at the front. But what a commentary is this on the high state of "civilization" to which the world has attained.

The New York state constitutional convention is under way at Albany. There is important work ahead of it and, fortunately for the people of New York, it is presided over by one of the ablest and cleanest public men in the United States, Elihu Root.

The merchant marine is growing in spite of the failure of the ship-purchase bill. Where there is business to be done Americans may be trusted to attend to it if the government will not interfere overmuch.

The Portsmouth Athletic Club never does anything by halves and their annual minstrel show was a success beyond the fondest hopes of the managers. The immense stage of the Portsmouth Theatre never contained a finer local production.

It is about time that some one called "Col. George W. Harvey" and others who are attacking Portsmouth without cause.

The legislature should not adjourn until it gives the Boston & Maine R. R. the relief that it must have.

ADAMS HOUSE AT BENNINGTON IS BURNED FLAT

Many Guests and Part of Town Were Endangered Monday Evening.

The Adams Tavern at Bennington, with the barn and adjoining saloon were wiped out by fire Monday evening. The lives of the guests of the house were endangered for some time and only the combined efforts of the fire department of Bennington, Andover and Hancock served to save a considerable portion of the town from destruction. The fire loss is estimated at $10,000.

The fire started in the loft of the barn adjoining the Adams Tavern, from an unknown cause and quickly spread. The local firemen at once sensed the seriousness of the situation and a call for aid was sent to Andover and Hancock. The departments of those towns at once responded and joined with the local department in keeping the fire within a small zone as possible.

The flames spread so rapidly that the firemen were only able to save some livestock and appointments of the barn and saloon and a portion of the furnishings of the hotel.

The Adams Tavern is owned by John Adams and has been for years a popular hostelry. Tonight there was a good sized registry of guests and many had retired before the fire was discovered. They fled the building in their nightclothes, not having time to procure any of their personal belongings.

While the fire was at its height David Lawson, a fireman cut an artery in his arm and his injuries required the attention of a physician.

The fact that no wind was blowing and so many people were available, saved the town from an even more serious fire than it experienced. As it was, the Congregational church nearby was badly scorched. The Grange Hall caught fire twice and the Sons of Veterans' Hall was slightly damaged. The principal business block of the town but a short distance away, was threatened several times. Several gasoline tanks were saved from exploding by the nearest margins.

Mr. Adams, who owned the hotel, barn and saloon was a heavy loser but his loss was covered to a considerable extent by insurance.

AT BOSTON THEATRES

"A MODERN EVE"

A New Musical comedy now at the Cort Theatre, Boston

On Monday evening last, the very newest creation there is in musical comedy, "A Modern Eve" was presented at the Cort Theatre, Boston, and met with emphatic approval. So favorable indeed was the verdict of the public that the stay of the pretty newcomer may be prolonged far into the summer.

"A Modern Eve" was first produced in Berlin over two years ago, and was so successful that it played protracted engagements there and in Paris, Vienna, and Budapest. The book was written by George Oloukowski and A. Schaeffgen, and translation was made by Willoughby and Haggood. The music was written by M. Jean Gilbert, Victor Hollander and Jerome Kern. The opera is in two parts or acts, which are laid in Aix Les Bains, France at the present time. There are fifteen musical numbers, and ten dancing numbers, all new.

The company is a large one and is headed by the noted comedian, who will be assisted by a cast which includes Ernest Glendling, Lila Hughes, Alexander Clark, Dorothy Webb, Cyril Chadwick, George Drew Mendum, Hazel Cox, Hale and Peterson and others. All of the principal members of the cast of "A Modern Eve" are well known to theatre goers of Boston and vicinity.

The story of the play is intended to poke fun at the woman suffrage movement in a good natured manner. It shows the family life of the Cascadier, a French family in which Madame Cascadier is positively and most distinctly the head of the house. Her daughters Renee and Camille, are brought up by the female parent, the former as an artist and the latter as a physician, under strict instructions to shun love and lovers as they would the plague, achieve fame by their individual talents and help run the world as it should be run. Poor Customer, husband and father, is sent to the kitchen where he becomes boss of the servants, knits stockings, and really acts as the family dog mat. But of course this state of affairs cannot last long for lovers by the score trail the pretty daughters morning, noon and night, and in the end love triumphs and everybody is happy but the militant suffragette leader.

Mallinea of "A Modern Eve" will be played on Wednesday and Saturday and a special matinee will be played on Patriots' Day, Monday April 19th.

CURRENT OPINION

Door of Opportunity Stands Open for America.

Never in the history of this great country has its door of opportunity stood open wider. Never has there been so glorious a future spread before it. I am convinced that the years to come will prove America equal to the great task. This mighty war has opened the way not only for a phenomenal development of our foreign trade with all lands, but for a stronger influence toward a higher civilization that will render such a war impossible in all the years to come.

This country cannot be recreant to its great trust. It cannot, it must not, shrink its responsibility.

Well equipped for its new task, guided by the spirit of true liberty that is the foundation stone of its government, with firm faith in that God who rules over all nations, the United States will put its new opportunities to good use and sweep on to a future that will make it the marvel of the world.—By General Felix Agnus, Publisher Baltimore American and the Star.

of reputation on both sides of the Atlantic to play the leading role and coach all the others in the novelty offered at the Toy Theatre for six performances only, beginning Monday evening April 12 closing Thursday evening April 15, with matinee Tuesday and Thursday.

"Change," is by J. O. Francis, and is a realistic play of life among the colliers in South Wales. It has just been published by the Drama League and is an intensely interesting play with plenty of simple humor and the dramatic excitement provided by a strike breaking episode in which all the members of the family of John Price take their varying parts.

Breast Cove who was born and brought up close to the very town, "Aberpandy," where the scene of "Change" is laid takes the part of the stiff old collier John Price.

Jessie Cove, his wife plays "Lizzie Ann" and the others in the cast Ruth Delano, Irving Pichel, Malcolm Morley, Everett Glass, Paul Houns, David Kimball and Day Manson make a very strong group.

As "Change" will appeal to a wide public, the management announces special prices for these performances. Balcony seats 50 cents and two hundred seats on the floor at $1.00.

There is no beautiful scenery in this production such as was seen at the Toy in "Captain Brassbound's Conversion," "The Great Catherine," "The Dark Lady of the Sonnets," and "Across the Border," only a simple cottage interior but the management promises that the acting will equal or excel anything so far seen at this very fascinating and rather astonishing little theatre.

"TONIGHT'S THE NIGHT"

"Tonight's the Night," a delightful musical comedy, presented by the famous London Gaiety Company, and fresh from its successful run of nearly five months at the Shubert Theatre, New York, is now duplicating its metropolitan success at the Shubert Theatre, Boston, where it opened last Monday night.

The London Gaiety Theatre is famous from one end of the civilized world to the other as the home and fountain-head of musical comedy. It was there that musical comedy was born, that this peculiar and distinctive form of light entertainment first had its being. Countless Gaiety pieces have been hitherto presented in America, but never by the all-English companies originally appearing in them in London, and with a background of real "Gaiety gells." The English atmosphere of daintiness and delicate charm, the distinctive feature of all the Gaiety pieces, has usually been lacking. Now American theatre-goers in "Tonight's the Night" have the opportunity of seeing the simon-pure variety of English production. The piece was intended for presentation at the Gaiety early in the fall, but the European war necessitated its having its premier in New York instead.

The cast includes an array of London favorites. There is Lauri De Frece, easily the most popular leading juvenile in London, a pert, lively chap with a splendid sense of fun and wonderful agile dancing legs. There is Fay Compton, sister of Compton Mackenzie, the novelist, a charming author-halved beauty, long a feature of the famous London Follies, and said to be a delightful singer. Also there is Miss Emmy Wholen, the charming Anglo-Vietnamese "soubrette" who has been a reigning favorite in London for five years, and Maurice Farina, imitable player of amorous Latin and singer of sentimental ballads. He, at least, needs no introduction to American audiences.

Also there is a chorus of typical "Gaiety gells" picked from the ranks of the Gaiety chorus, probably the most famous collection of stage beauties in all the world.

MINUTES IN MANHATTAN

By Gotham Kickerbocker
New York, April 12.—Commencing by aeroplanes which Harold McCormick, John D's son in law, tried with scant success in Chicago, will be taken up by a band of New York city pioneers this summer. I learn that spy young Vincent Astor is a leading spirit—he's to have guaranteed to beat anything motor boat race—while Bob Collier, J. Stuart Blackton, Willie K. Van Jr., and D. Milburn the pole star, are also in on it.

That doesn't complete the list by any means. Other charter members are likely to be A. Holland Forbes, Jay Gould, court tennis wizard, Clifford B. Harmon, real estate whiz, Alan R. Hawley, gas bag man, Colgate Hoyt, John Barry Ryan, son of T. P. Rod Wanamaker who would have backed the cross the Atlantic flight if the Kaiser had let him Rayne Whitney and perhaps another Vanderbilt or two.

These men have places along the Sound, or their friends have—which is the same thing so far as the aeroplane idea goes. They figure they can spend one to three hours more of daylight up in the Long Island and Connecticut breezes by taking a chance twice a day. Just so much more tennis, just so much more golf, just so much more time with the wife and children. And another little chance to kick the spinning little alarm clock in the face.

Most of these men have already ordered brand new 1915 model aeroplanes or flying boats, I learn. The above names are only approximately correct. They are right to this extent—not a man among them will be missing by September, if the new committee proves satisfactory to the lenders.

The men are members of the Aero Club of America. They have established a club landing place at 72nd street and the East river, near the garage of the Automobile Club of America, of which the wealthy flying men are also members. The committee promise to start a regular schedule June 1.

Pittsburgh, which knows the story of the long rivalry between Henry Clay Frick and Andrew Carnegie, will be interested in this. The latest round is Andy's. First Andrew and later Henry transplanted big trees to adorn the fronts of their Fifth avenue palaces. The coke king's trees are dead and the steel king's are flourishing.

Mr. Frick had carefully selected horsechestnut trees, fully grown, brought here by special train from Germantown, Pa., in the fall of 1912. Each tree had three tons of Germantown earth clinging to the roots, while rich Long Island soil was laid six feet deep along the roots for the bed. The trees cost $500 apiece to transplant.

But Mr. Frick took an awful chance nevertheless. There were 13 hippocastans in a row! They died of gas poisoning due to a leak in a pipe nearby. It is rumored Mr. Frick is investigating how much Con gas the only bigger man from Pittsburgh than he, controls.

"C" FIVE DEFEATS SO. BERWICK TEAM

Kittery Boys Win by Score of 18 to 10.

The "C" Five basketball team of Kittery went to South Berwick on Monday evening and defeated the Middlets of that town, with a score of 18 to 10. Morrow's dodging and floor work was a feature of the game, as was also Munson's accurate basket shooting. For the Middlets J. Flynn put up a first rate all-round game, playing well the entire evening. The line-up:

"C" FIVE.
Brackett, rf
Hackney, cf
Munson, lf
Thompson, c
Morrow, rb
Flynn, lb
Webber, lb

The summary—Score, C Five 18, Middlets 10. Goals from floor, Munson 4, Morrow 2, Webber 2, J. Flynn 2, Brackett, Cheney, and P. Flynn. Goals from fouls, J. Flynn 2. Referee, Matthews; umpire, Swazey; timer, H. Colton; scorer, Colleton. Time, two 15-minute, and one 10-minute periods.

The "C" Five is a fairly new team composed only this past season. There are a number of fast players on the team and next season promises to make a great showing. Of the four games that they have played this year they have lost only one, that being lost after playing twelve minutes overtime.

GERMANY MAKES PROTEST THROUGH UNITED STATES

(Special to The Herald)

Berlin, via Amsterdam, April 13.—Germany has made a protest through the neutral government of the United States against the treatment accorded by the English of the captured crews of German submarines, and threatens to take retaliatory measures against British officers now held captives in Germany. This information was made known when a note sent by Foreign Minister Von Jagow on Sunday to Ambassador Gerard was made public. The minister asserts that the treatment accorded the captured crews of the German submarines U-12 and U-3 was contrary to all international law and he has asked Mr. Gerard to make arrangements to have a member of the American embassy at London make a personal investigation.

London, April 13.—Information that Germany has asked the United States to investigate the treatment of crews of captured German submarines on the ground of a breach of international law is not being well received here. It is contended that as the German government has seen fit to disregard all laws of international warfare in her underwater campaign against merchant ships, she has little right to claim its protection in this instance.

Helen Seavey Quilting Party to Apply This Week to Legislature.

The Helen Seavey Quilting Party, the local women's patriotic society, will request the legislature this week to adopt a motto for New Hampshire, which is one of the few states in the Union without one. The motto suggested is "Vincit Omnia Veritas—Truth Conquers All Things." The Helen Seavey Quilting Party has been active in patriotic work since its organization. Among other things it presented the battleship New Hampshire with a portrait of John Paul Jones and placed a memorial tablet on the Lord house, telling that Paul Jones once lived there.

WILHELM TO TRY SAME GAME AT NEWPORT NEWS

Said to Be a Decoy for a Big Raid to be Pulled Off.--Interferes With U. S. Fleet Practice.

Newport News Va., April 12.—A navy board of survey began today an examination of the converted German cruiser Kronprinz Wilhelm to determine whether her commander's claim that she needs repairs is well founded. It is expected they will report her in even worse condition than her sister raider the Prinz Eitel Friedrich now interned at Norfolk.

Capt. Thierfelder of the Kronprinz Wilhelm announced that his ship would be ready for sea in two weeks. According to officers of the Prinz Eitel Friedrich which interned here last week the failure of the British fleet off the Cape to prevent the Wilhelm from entering port in safety would cost the British admiral his command.

Commander Thierfelder of the Kronprinz was believed certain to follow the example of the Eitel's commander and if granted time to make repairs to do so although there is not a doubt in any one's mind who knows the facts that he was ordered here to intern for the war in order to save his vessel. If he can delay an announcement to that effect for 30 days however, he will be able to keep the Anglo-French squadron hanging about the Cape instead of watching other coast points for German shipping.

The belief is also expressed that a big German naval coup is developing and that the Wilhelm is acting as a decoy to hold the allied fleet off Newport News.

'Berl' Berl No Menace

Officials here say that although there are a number of cases of beriberi on the Kronprinz due to lack of proper food for the crew there is no danger from that source. According to propose to keep the pledge. We are going back home to do whatever our country calls upon us to do."

Ministers of the British ships made statements to Collector of Customs Hamilton on the destruction of their ships. Both were sunk by shots from the Kronprinz Wilhelm's guns.

Spectacular Dash

The Wilhelm lay at anchor off here today after a spectacular dash through the lane of British and French warships which have been hovering off the Virginia capes waiting for the expected seaward dash of the Prinz Eitel Friedrich. The Kronprinz Wilhelm occupies an anchorage in the James river at almost identically the same spot selected by the Prinz Eitel when she reached here March 10.

Fuel and Supplies Ready

One hundred and fifty tons of coal 50 tons of fresh water and three days' supply of fresh meats and vegetables were loaded on barges during the night and were alongside the cruiser at sunrise. These supplies were allotted the raider by Collector of Customs Hamilton after a conference with the Washington authorities.

Lieutenant Commander Thierfelder of the cruiser has asked for time to survey his ship and to submit to examination by a board of United States naval officers before making a formal request as to the time he wishes to remain in American waters for full supplies and repairs. His machinery after the 25 days' voyage from New York harbor is said to be in fairly good condition, evidenced by the fact that the ship was able to make at least 23 knots an hour Saturday night and Sunday morning in her dash into Hampton Roads to evade enemy warships.

All was shipshape on board the Wilhelm at sunrise today, officers and sailors in their queer looking gray uniforms of French army cloth captured from the steamer Guedeloupe, presenting a fresh appearance after the first undisturbed night's rest in eight months of persistent and elusive operations on the high seas.

Another "Frye" Complication
Sinking by the Wilhelm of the neutral Norwegian bark Semantha, bound for Baltimore Feb. 5 last, promised today to present an international case similar to that precipitated by the sinking of the American bark William P. Frye by the German raider Prinz Eitel Friedrich, now interned here. The Semantha was loaded with wheat for England.

The Norwegian ship's cargo was contraband of war, said Lieut. Wernicke, when asked about the destruction of this neutral ship today. "There was no alternative for us. The cargo of wheat was worth far more than the ship itself and from the ship's papers we found that the wheat was destined by the British government. What could we do? We had to destroy her."

Investigation is being made of the conditions under which the Kronprinz Wilhelm slipped out of New York harbor Aug. 3 last, it being reported that she did not have proper clearance papers when she made her dash, as it now develops, under direct orders from the German government. Should it be found that the ship did not secure clearance papers she would be subject to "penalties and penalties" for violation of the customs law of the United States.

The 31 prisoners now on board the Kronprinz Wilhelm still were crowded up in a space in the upper after deck and guarded by armed sailors. Efforts to talk to the prisoners were prevented by the guards but later today they will be brought ashore.

Raiders Crew American

The crew of the Kronprinz Wilhelm is composed almost entirely of persons who are naturalized Americans who have lived in the United States for many years. Some of them are former members of the crew of the United States battleship Kearsarge and of the to public health officials. If it is thought best the 66 persons on the German raider suffering from the disease will be landed for treatment and most of them probably will be cured. Shortly before noon today the 61 British officers and men of the steamers Tamar and Coleby were taken from the Wilhelm aboard a tug and rushed down the river to the British House Bill No. 567 was introduced late in the session through the judiciary committee of the house. It was entitled "An act in amendment of Sect. 3, Chapter 125, Laws of 1907 relating to the trial of dependent, neglected and delinquent children."

The amendment was substantially as follows: ship Cassandra which will sail later today for Glasgow. The harbor was lined with British merchant ships as the captives of the German raider were released and as their tug steamed by hundreds of British sailors lined the decks of their ships and cheered.

When the liberated British tars reached the Cassandra's dock, they tossed the remnants of their luggage aboard and danced around like school boys in anticipation of the trip to the native land joyous that they had escaped death by the guns of their country's warships Saturday night.

The British captives related how they were forced by Lieut. Capt. Thierfelder of the Wilhelm to sign a pledge that they would not participate in the war against Germany if released.

"We all signed the pledge under duress," said A. E. Williamson second officer of the Tamar, "but because it was taken under duress we don't propose to keep the pledge. We are going back home to do whatever our country calls upon us to do."

Ministers of the British ships made statements to Collector of Customs Hamilton on the destruction of their ships. Both were sunk by shots from the Kronprinz Wilhelm's guns.

C. E. Kenworthy, British vice-consul in communication with Collector Hamilton concerning the disposition of the prisoners. It is the intention to send them back to England on the British steamer Cassandra, now in this port.

Mr. Grassau, German vice-consul, also paid an official visit to the cruiser. Early today United States naval patrol of the James river was begun in the vicinity of the Kronprinz Wilhelm's anchorage. The naval tug Patuxent took a position alongside the German cruiser, while torpedo boats and submarines anchored in positions leading to Hampton Roads.

The provisions taken on by the cruiser were for use in this port only. They consisted of vegetables and fresh meat the lack of which was responsible for the epidemic of beriberi.

Wilhelm's Arrival, Balka U. S. Manoeuvres.

Washington, April 12.—Arrival of the German cruiser Kronprinz Wilhelm at Newport News just at this time was distinctly embarrassing to the navy department.

It means that during the entire time the British blockading fleet is held off the Virginia capes, which may be 20 days if the Prinz Eitel precedent is followed, it will be in the way of the Atlantic fleet, now in the Roads preparing for spring target practice in "Tangle" sound. The fleet steaming in and out must watch out for the British and French blockades and the possibility of an American warship being mistaken for the German raider and possibly greeted with a broadside will always be present.

The navy department however, is better prepared than ever before to enforce neutrality. When the Eitel situation became threatening Secretary Daniels was required to detach the reserve battleship Alabama from the Philadelphia navy yard. Today he has the entire strength of the American navy on the ground where it can be used for any emergency.

Officials here declare they have no doubt that the Kronprinz put into Newport News to intern. In accordance with precedent, however, Commander Thierfelder will not do so until he has exhausted every excuse to remain. So long as he is not officially interned he forces the British French blockading squadron to remain on watch outside the Virginia Capes.

Over thirty members of the local Methodist congregation attended the conference at Rochester on Sunday.

READY TO LIFT SUBMARINE

Honolulu April 12.—One pontoon now equipped with lifting apparatus, cranes and derrick engines to be used in the attempt to raise the submarine F-4 has been finished. A second was brought from Pearl Harbor yesterday and its outfitting has been begun.

The cruiser Maryland with divers and apparatus to be used in the work of raising the submarine was due to arrive today.

The exact position of the F-4 will be learned only through the reports of the diver.

It is expected the divers will be unable to attach the cables to the hull as they are too heavy to be handled by manpower. The divers however will attempt to direct the placing of the cables. Pontoon work it is said will be a last resort.

COMPLETE LETTER OF SEC. DANIELS

The Chronicle through lack of space and the fact that it came to us late was able only to publish that part of Secretary of the Navy Daniels' letter to the Transcript that pertained to Portsmouth. Believing that the letter is interesting we are publishing it today in its entirety:

To the Editor of the Transcript:

In an April magazine there appears a statement credited to the Boston Transcript to the effect that shortly after the last congressional election the secretary of the navy issued an order that "ships hitherto repaired at the Portsmouth navy yard be transferred to Pensacola and other southern yards, some of which are now being equipped at large expense to the government to do repair work," and the Transcript added that Portsmouth had already begun to feel the effect of Secretary Daniels' displeasure over the defeat of the democratic ticket in New Hampshire.

If such a statement appeared in the Transcript, it escaped my notice. Assuming that the quotation in the magazine is accurate, I desire to make two statements which show that the publication was based upon incorrect information:

1. The number of employees at the Portsmouth (N. H.) yard has increased since I became secretary of the navy. The labor rolls for the Portsmouth yard show that for February, 1913, the last month of the preceding administration, the average number of men employed exclusive of clerical and supervisory forces and apprentices was 550; for February, 1915, the average number of employees was 845, an increase in the labor rolls of about 51 per cent. The numbers of men employed each month since the last election were as follows: November, 840; December, 1020; January, 920; and February 845, and in spite of the fact that normal conditions necessitated a reduction of work during the winter months. None of the industrial activities of the Portsmouth yard have been interfered with, and the volume of work has not decreased, but has increased.

You say that I have transferred

"ships that have hitherto been repaired at the Portsmouth navy yard to Pensacola and other navy yards." No ship has been or will be transferred to Pensacola and that station will be used exclusively for aviation. It cannot repair any ship, as it is not equipped for repair work. No ship has been transferred from Portsmouth to any navy yard, but the New Orleans yard has been opened for repair work on gun-boats used in southern waters. A few such boats, which have heretofore been sent for repair work to Portsmouth and other yards, will be hereafter repaired at New Orleans. Instead of an increased expense to the government, the opening of the navy yard at New Orleans will prove of economic, as well as military value.

The appraised value of the yard in 1912 was found to be $2,350,025.06. It was closed by Secretary Meyer. When my term as secretary began, I found a number of light cruisers and gun-boats assigned to duty in the Gulf and Caribbean Sea. In fact, those of the Atlantic fleet are nearly always on duty in those waters and rarely anywhere else. Since the closing of the New Orleans yard, whenever one of these smaller craft needed any repairs, even the slightest, the ship had to be sent all the way to Portsmouth, N. H., or Boston, Mass., to be repaired, a distance of 1500 miles. It costs about from $450 to $500 in coal alone to take a gun boat from Guantanamo to Portsmouth, not counting the seven or eight days lost from useful service in making the trip. It seemed to me that a private corporation, owning both those big plants at Portsmouth and New Orleans, would not be guilty of the waste involved in sending the gun-boats and small craft so far from the scene of their activities for repairs. I have, therefore, opened the New Orleans yard on a small scale for such work. At the same time, it seemed to me to be good business to fully utilize the Portsmouth yard in a way that was needed by the navy. Therefore, much of the electrical work needed by the navy has been concentrated at Portsmouth, most of the launches are constructed in that yard, and the Portsmouth yard has been fitted to

JUVENILE ACT STRENGTHENED BY LAW

By the terms of House Bill No. 567 recently signed by the governor, the state of New Hampshire extends the cloak of secrecy to arrests of juvenile offenders.

Up to this time the law, as it was written in the statute books, simply prohibited the newspapers from printing accounts of court trials in the case of juveniles. That part of the act which concerned the publication of news of this kind read as follows:

And it shall be unlawful for any newspaper to publish the proceedings of any juvenile court.

"It shall be unlawful for any newspaper to publish the name or address, or any other particular information serving to identify any juvenile offender under arrest, without the express permission of the court and it shall be unlawful for any newspaper to publish the proceedings of any juvenile court."

This act passed the house of representatives and the senate and was signed Thursday April 8, by Governor Spaulding and, by the terms of the measure, takes effect on its passage.

The advantages of the measure are set forth by the proponents as follows:

"There is no question that that is what the legislature of 1907 intended doing when it passed the measure relating to the trial of juveniles. When it said 'proceedings' the act undoubtedly meant 'arrest and court,' and, in my judgment, if it had gone to the supreme court for any cause the term 'proceedings' would have been interpreted as including that of 'arrest.'"

"What is the use of prohibiting the publication of the court trial and not arrest? Thus, after a juvenile is arrested all the facts will be set forth, just as the police allege them, together with all the facts concerning the juvenile's past record, if he has one. Perhaps, at the court the next day, he will be vindicated. Yet, the papers are by law powerless to mention that fact; better publish none of it unless all of it."

In this city the juvenile act has been observed to the letter by the newspapers who have refused to publish anything concerning juvenile offenders.

Frank H. Moore of Deer street passed Monday in Boston.

NO FERRY, PEOPLE WALK

About 50 Residents of Kittery, Kittery Point and Elliot Left on Portsmouth Side of River After Minstrel Show.

Owing to the failure of the Atlantic Shore railway ferry Alice Howard to run a late trip after the performance of the P. A. C. minstrels Monday evening about fifty people were obliged to walk to their homes in Kittery, Kittery Point and Elliot. The railroad officials claim that members of the boat crew thought that the minstrel show had ended at 11.0 p.m. when the last trip of the ferry from the Portsmouth side was made.

Hearing of the plight of those waiting on this side of the river the railroad officials ordered the ferry and cars to make an extra trip about midnight, but by this time the greater part of those waiting had walked home.
